Presenter: Melissa Bonetti, Department of Justice

Topic: DOJ Firearms Update

Melissa Bonetti grew up in a small farming community in Northern California. She worked in private sector for 20 years before beginning her career with the state. Ms. Bonetti first took an entry-level position with the Department of Justice in 2003 and then transferred to the then Division of Firearms in 2006. Shortly after that, the Division of Firearms became the Bureau of Firearms. While working full time and with the support of her family Ms. Bonetti completed her Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice Administration from University of Phoenix in 2008. Ms. Bonetti has continued to work in the Bureau of Firearms and has had opportunities to work in various position, programs, and projects. In 2014, Ms. Bonetti became a Field Representative with the bureau and is responsible for inspecting firearm dealers and various training assignment throughout the Central Valley Region. This includes storefronts, home dealers, pawnshops, manufactures, dangerous weapon licensees, and conducts training to firearm dealers, professional organization, mental health facilities, and superior courts.

Melissa will be providing training regarding Firearms and discuss recent updates. This training will be valuable for those new to the system and for those familiar with the system.
